

A Cabin in Cripple Creek

Ten-year-old Mary Haskins and her family head to Cripple Creek, Colorado, in 1895. Mary rides a "wild burro," witnesses two big fires that threaten to burn down the entire town, and explores railroad cars filled with all kinds of surprises. Her father loses the family savings to a dishonest man, but Mary saves the day by learning to pan for gold. A Cabin in Cripple Creek is a part of the Children of Colorado Series, which includes Denver Days and One Golden Summer. Expect more books in this fascinating series that are written at a Third or Fourth Grade level. The interesting plots will, however, appeal to children (and adults) of all ages.

Rating: Not Rated Yet

Price

Base price with tax $9.66

Price with discount $8.95

Salesprice with discount

Sales price $9.66

Discount

Tax amount $0.71

Ask a question about this product

Description

Price: $8.95

112 Pages

Illustrated with Historic Photographs

Width: 5.50

Height: 7.00

ISBN: 1-932738-04-5

Softbound

Reviews

There are yet no reviews for this product.

